After that I want to click a button and get the password from the text box (located right below it). I've tried to do that using the following line of code, but I get the error message: Cannot read property 'getAttribute' of undefined var element = element(by.xpath("//input[@value='" + password + "']")).getAttribute('value'); Here is the markup: Password: Confirm My code is based on this question, I want to know how to deal with the text in the text box here. A: You can use element.getAttribute('value') to get the value. You just need to give the value you want to get, for e.g: value="2" See the below code: var el=element(by.xpath("//input[@value='" + password + "']")); el.getAttribute('value'); package us.codecraft.webmagic.example.config; import us.codecraft.webmagic.MyConfig; import java.util.HashMap; import java.util.Map; / * @author code4crafter@gmail.com */ public class BizConfig extends MyConfig { private Map data = new HashMap(); public BizConfig() { super();
