Path to Clipboard is a neat tool that has been created to provide users with a quick way to store the location path of an item straight from its context menu. The utility adds a new entry in the right-click menu of the items available on the computer that permits copying the path to the clipboard. This option comes in handy when you want to copy the location of a file in order to open the item in another program. As far as the difficulty of working with the tool is concerned, there are no settings available, and it is ready to be used as soon as the installation process completes. The add-on can be used with any type of file, regardless of the storage path, as well as with folders. It is very useful on operating system lower than Windows XP since version 7 of the OS has the possibility to copy the path built-in. I had this version from yesterday (the one i'm writing) and it's working fine. But today i try to open HxD 2.0 and when the program starts it gives the error message: "There was a problem with the file or directory." When i click ok, HxD 2.0 closes. I also tried to reinstall HxD 2.0 and get the same problem. It's my first time using this forum, i'm kind of a noob at this, so please forgive me. Looks like I'm one of the people who has this problem. This is quite an annoying bug. The old version has a different error message: "Could not find the icon path." Both versions are located in the "Extra" section. The ones from yesterday work fine with the newer version. I could not reproduce the problem, it only happens on my computer. I've reinstalled HxD 2.0 several times and each time it worked fine. My computer is a Pentium 3, AMD Athalon M520 1.0 GHz processor with 512 MB of RAM and a Hard disk with 160 GB of space. I have to replace it as well, but I won't. I've never encountered a problem, it's like I
