The government of Colombia has proposed a $15bn (£8.9bn) development bank to rival the World Bank, according to a leaked document. The proposal is part of a broad plan to increase international credit to developing countries. It forms one side of a five-year, $15bn (£8.9bn) co-ordinated investment package that aims to improve investment flows into Latin America. Though unlikely to have much impact at the moment, the announcement is nonetheless important because the Colombian proposal is, unlike the World

What's New in the?

easeYARA is a free threat scanner that can perform just about anything one could want. The application is very easy to use and understand, so even if you're new to these sorts of things, you won't have any trouble getting it up and running. It's actually quite addicting to use, especially if you prefer using a terminal app as opposed to a graphic interface. The application is easy to use, allowing you to enter the destination folder and specify the exact file type you wish to scan. You can even add custom rules and scan a range of files. For those who are looking for something to run in the background, this is an excellent choice. The user-friendly interface should make the process easier for you.

Some vehicles may be equipped with a particulate filter device that removes particulate matter from engine exhaust gas flowing through an exhaust system. Typically, the particulate filter may include a filter device that is arranged in an exhaust system downstream from a diesel particulate filter device in order to capture particulate matter (e.g., particulate matter, soot particles, and/or carbonaceous matter) emitted by the diesel particulate filter device. The particulate filter may act as a filtration device to filter out particulate matter from exhaust gas, thus reducing or eliminating the release of particulate matter into the atmosphere.

This disclosure relates to managing resources in a networked environment. More particularly, the disclosure relates to dynamic resource loading. In a networked environment, it may be desirable to dynamically load resources, including static resource locations or controls, as well as dynamic resource destinations or controls, from an application host or server for particular users or client computing devices. For example, certain users or client computing devices may be associated with or in need of a particular static resource location or control, while other users or client computing devices may be associated with or in need of a different static resource location or control. In another example, it may be desirable to redirect certain users or client computing devices to a different static resource destination or control based on the particular users' or client computing devices' access to certain information or data. Sensitivity analysis ----- To estimate the consistency of the results, we conducted a sensitivity analysis using a range of different α values, as recommended by other studies.[@ref17] Specifically, we varied α from 0.05 to 0.3, 0.1 to 0.3, or 0.2 to 0.3.[@ref18]
