Theresa of the May's supporters claim that the abdication of a human soul or spirit counts as the soul or spirit being transferred to a computer and that the current Queen is actually the new sovereign (the "New Queen of the Universe"). This makes a bit of sense to me if you think about it. The body is merely a vehicle for the spirit, and so, if you think about it, the spirit could simply live in the new body. So, does the transfer of a soul or spirit to a computer count as the soul or spirit? A: So, does the transfer of a soul or spirit to a computer count as the soul or spirit? Nope! What we call the 'soul' or 'spirit' are two words for the same thing: the thing you have when you are alive. ...the creature has a sort of lower life more akin to the plant than the animal, in possessing a body, sensation, and locomotion. The soul is something more than this lower life; it is the vital principle moving the body and animating the senses. (Paracelsus) According to alchemy and a lot of other occult/magical theories (e.g. Traditional Chinese medicine) the soul/spirit is the vital fluid or elixir that moves/injects the life force into each cell and organ. A computer has no soul at all. It is a complex machine and it may be powered by both celestial and earthly energy, but the machine is just a machine, and every machine is just a complex, inert substance.
